An evening dedicated to Interconnectivity & Environmental Buddhism in memory of Susan Orr

- Overview: Suttas in the Pali Canon that support an understanding and appreciation for an extrapolation of a "universal sangha" that allows for the inclusion of all sentient beings (as noted in the title of the talk).
- The elements of fire, water, air, and earth—the metaphor, the traditional view of these elements in our personal and collective development.
- The story of the SDC Cooper hawks (life death, and letting go), Susan Orr's cats and Cooper Hawks, and sharing space with all creatures of the land, air, and sea.
